

GAME PROTECTION GIVEN BIG BOOST IN CAPITAL CITY

One Hundred and Sixty-four Members Join Movement There in Week; This Is Record, Says Westerfeld.

Officers of the Albuquerque Game Protective association yesterday received word from Edward Safford, secretary of the new protective association in Santa Fe, to the effect that 164 members had enlisted in the game protection cause in Santa Fe within the past week. This sets a new record for New Mexico, says Henry Westerfeld, president of the Albuquerque association. The movement for conservation of game in New Mexico, starting only three months ago, has made phenomenal progress, but nowhere has there been such a whirlwind campaign as that reported by Mr. Safford.

The local association will have to look to its laurels, adds Mr. Westerfeld, and every member will have to get busy and help keep up with the procession. He points out that the Santa Fe association has an exceptionally strong set of officers, consisting of George Stevenson, president; Frank Owen, vice president; C. G. Mardorf, treasurer; Edward Safford, secretary, and an executive committee consisting of E. Dana Johnson, R. V. Boyle, Trinidad C. de Baca, Charles Probstel, Don P. Johnston, Levi A. Hughes and Edward Andrews. All of these men, he says, are hustlers and have already proved that Santa Fe can be counted on to give its full measure of help to further the program of work for increasing the New Mexico game supply.

It should not be overlooked, says Mr. Westerfeld, that this movement, besides helping the game, is bound to cement good relations among the different cities of New Mexico and the regions which they represent. These associations, he says, now exist at Silver City, Taos, Magdalena, Santa Fe and Albuquerque, and can point with a good deal of pride to the fact that after several months of active relations not a single dispute or disagreement has arisen among them. This unanimity of purpose he attributes to the fact that the game protective associations were wisely organized on a uniform platform of principles, to the support of which each association and each individual member is pledged in advance. This entire absence of disagreement, he says, adds 100 per cent to the strength of the movement.

Aldo Leopold, representing the Albuquerque Game Protective association and the forest service, leaves tomorrow for a tour of the southern part of the state, where he will present the game protection proposition to the sportsmen of the southern cities and invite them to organize and join in the statewide movement to increase the game supply. He will deliver illustrated lectures at several points, and also confer with Texas officials on game matters.

WILLARD WILL MEET FULTON IN EAST IF MORAN DOESN'T SIGN

Kansas City, Jan. 21.—With the intention of concluding arrangements for a championship bout in April and perhaps another fight later, Jess Willard, holder of the world's heavyweight pugilistic title, and his manager, left here tonight for Chicago, where they will meet Jack Curley.

"I'm ready to meet anybody they bring on," Willard declared. "I want at least one fight before I begin my engagement with a circus, and may be another one if the dates are satisfactory."

It was intimated that should the signature of Frank Moran not be forthcoming to the proposed contract for a bout in New York that Fred Fulton might be substituted.

WILLARD OFFERED $35,000 BY MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

New York, Jan. 21.—James Johnson, manager of Madison Square Garden, announced tonight an offer of $35,000 to Jess Willard and $25,000 to Frank Moran for a ten-round boxing match here the latter part of March.

YANKEES GET THREE MORE FEDS, INCLUDING STAR PACKER TWIRLER

New York, Jan. 21.—The New York American league baseball club obtained three more Federal league players by purchase today. The star of the trio is Nick Culp, formerly the leading pitcher of the Kansas City club, who ranked fourth in the Federal league (twirling averages at the end of the 1915 season). The other two players are Joe Gordon, who signed with the Newark Federals after the close of the last playing season, and Herman (Germany) Schaefer.

Gordon, a hard hitting second baseman, played with the Salt Lake City team last summer, having a batting average of .317 and a fielding average of .932.

The club also released three players, Pitchers Brown and Kling going to the Louisville club and Outfielder Daley to the Vernon club of the Coast league.

FOUND SALE

On Saturday, the 22nd day of January, 1916, at 10 o'clock a. m., in front of the city hall on North Second street, I will sell one dark brown horse about 12 years old; will weigh about 600 pounds; left hind foot white; small spots on back.

THOMAS McMILLIN,
City Marshal.

Pat Moran Is to Lead the Phillies for Three More Years

Pat Moran, the manager of the Phillies, who brought the first National league championship to the City of Brotherly Love last fall, has been signed to lead the team for the next three years. Owner William F. Baker recently received a signed contract from Moran, which binds the determined leader for the seasons of 1916, 1917 and 1918.

BOXING CARD TO BE GIVEN AT THE ELKS' SMOKER

At Smoulding, Harry Schaefer and Young Joe Rivers Will Meet Opponents in Ring Tonight.

Some of the best talent in pugilistic circles obtainable here will be seen in action tonight at the Elks' smelter. Action is promised in a glance at the names of the performers. The selections were made by the promoting committee with discretion that reflects ability in the promotion line.

The event gives promise of being a strong drawing card, although it is only for Elks and consequently there is only the membership to draw from. However, the roster is long. It has been a long time since Albuquerque has had a taste of the boxing game and the Elks appetites should be whetted for the program.

Al Smoulding, the "Ebony Statue," the clever colored middleweight who was a favorite here in the hey-day of boxing, and John Thomas, another colored middleweight, will take part in the main event. They will go eight rounds. The preliminaries will be of four rounds duration.

Harry Schaefer, who has a valuable reputation in these days of modern dancing—that of always giving the spectators a real fight and a satisfying run for their money—will meet someone in the semi-windup. His opponent was not announced last night.

Young Joe Rivers, the scrappy youngster whose combination of speed and swiftness made him a favorite here, will hold up one end of one of the preliminaries.

Young Chavez will meet another boy in the other preliminary. In addition to the pugilistic features of the program several vaudeville acts are promised. One of these will be given by a Spanish dancer.

Officials pointed out today that where insurance was paid on cargo, indemnity for its destruction usually went to the insurance companies rather than to the owners, but it was said there were many arguments in justification of a different course in the case of loss of life.

Germany has offered indemnity for the Lusitania victims, but acceptance by the United States hinges upon the outcome of negotiations now in progress for the settlement and all issues growing out of the tragedy.

POLICE ROUND UP SIX BOYS; ADMIT LOOTING A HOTEL

Entered Santa Fe Hostelry Through Cellar and Took Bedclothes; Donahue and Lujan Make Arrests.

Six boys, whose apparent ages range from 16 to 18 years, were charged with burglary in a warrant issued last night by Police Judge George H. Craig. All admitted the charge, the police say. The boys were arrested yesterday afternoon by Sergeant Ed Donahue and Patrolman Public Lujan.

The boys entered the Santa Fe hotel, owned by M. E. Myer, at 908 South Third street Thursday or yesterday, according to the police, and carried away two suitcases packed with white bed spreads, Navajo blankets, several pairs of shoes and other articles. Not all of them were in the hotel either day. There was no one in the place at the time.

The boys got into the hotel through a cellar door and went upstairs inside. The police found bundles in the cellar which, they believe, the boys intended to carry away later, but that they speedily arrested interference with their plans. The boys are: Juan Garcia, Argentine; Curran, Argentine; Chavez, Rafael Ayel, Romulo Rivera and Juan Rios.

Sergeant Donahue and Patrolman Lujan last night called at the home of Mrs. Thomas Rivera de Rios, mother of one of the boys under arrest, with a warrant charging her with aiding in the concealment of stolen property. She gave them two Navajo blankets for which she was said to have paid $2. She was cited to appear in court this morning.

U. S. SUBMARINE RUNS ON SAN DIEGO MUD BANK

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 21.—The United States submarine H-2 fouled a mudbank in the harbor here today while rising to the surface from a run under water, and despite the efforts of steamers summoned to the scene, was left high and dry when the tide went out.

The H-2 was traveling at a fast rate when it struck the mudbank and continued to slide for more than 100 feet. The mishap was blamed by naval officers on the alleged failure of the lighthouse service to replace a lost buoy.

Only five feet of the periscope showed above water when the vessel struck. As there was no beacon to tell where the edge of the deep channel was, Lieut. William F. Newton, commanding the vessel, said he thought he had plenty of time to change his course after the boat rose to the surface.

The monitor Cheyenne will attempt to drag the submarine into deep water tomorrow morning.

CLOVIS VOTERS ARE FIFTY-FIFTY ON PROHIBITION

Registration Books Show 982 Qualified to Express Choice; Nobody Knows Which Way the Cat Will Hop.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL.) Clovis, N. M., Jan. 21.—The prohibition campaign which is now on here might be likened unto a mammoth tug of war, with two teams composed of the finest athletes and strongest men, one pitted against the other, and each striving with all its might to pull its opponents across the line and thus be proclaimed victorious, but with the result of the pull in doubt until the polls close on the evening of election day, January 21, and the ballots are counted. There are those who are predicting a large majority, and whether this be wet or dry depends on which way your informant leans in the fight. But it is known by those who have been engaged in making a poll of the city and have sifted the evidence down that a big majority one way or the other is not expected. It can be said with all truthfulness that those who are in a position to know—or rather those who have collected data on which to base a prediction, for no one knows exactly how it is going to be decided—consider it about a fifty-fifty break at this writing.

Of course, in this as in all elections, there is the possibility of that old-time catastrophe, which has wrecked many a political hope, the landslide. Such a thing is possible here, although not probable. But if such a thing should come to pass nobody will be more surprised than the faction in whose direction the slide is rumored, for it is known that the leaders of neither faction expect anything like this to occur.

Claim Victory.

One point which the vote content gives them a shade the best of it over the pros is this: A good many people, for business and other reasons, will talk pro and vote anti. For this reason the anti expect that their vote will be materially increased over what their poll shows. But on the other hand, it is probable that at least a few men who are classed as anti will vote the pro ticket. So maybe on this proposition it is a toss and a toss. The registration books closed last night and showed a total of 982 names registered. Of course some of these names will be eliminated when the registration boards go over and check up the books. But it is also a fact that some names of legal voters will be added, which do not now appear on the books, so that the total is not likely to be greatly changed. This is the largest registration in the history of the city.

The registration board in each ward will have some job checking the names over. Each side seems determined to have a fair, square election and to that end the boards will go sleuthing for every man about whom there is any doubt about his eligibility to vote, and as there are many newcomers in Clovis this is not going to be a picnic. However, in this registration each side has insisted on those who registered complying with the law in regard to giving their place of residence, street and number where possible, so that this will be of some assistance to the registration boards.

NO SUBMARINE OF AUSTRIA OR GERMANY GUILTY

Both Vienna and Berlin Have Formally Stated That Steamer Persia Was Not Sunk by Teutonic Submersible.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE.) Vienna, (via London, Jan. 22, 3:20 a. m.)—The government has informed Frederick C. Penfield, the United States ambassador, that no Austro-Hungarian submarine was concerned in the sinking of the Peninsular and Oriental liner steamer Persia.

Great nations always accept official statements from each other at full value, therefore, since Austria has stated to the American ambassador that no Austro-Hungarian submarine attacked the Persia and Berlin stated formally some days ago that no German submarine was in the vicinity when the disaster occurred, it may be accepted that American naval officers were right when they insisted from the time the details were made known that the vessel probably struck a mine or was sunk by an internal explosion. Turkey has a few submarines, but none was believed responsible for the sinking of the Persia, and the incident, which stirred the war spirit in America to the boiling point may be regarded as closed.

PICTURE DRAWN OF KRIVOLAK IS NOT ATTRACTIVE

Debarcation Point of French Armies a Small Unclean Village With Little to Redeem Its Ugliness.

(Associated Press Correspondence.) Krivolak, Serbia, Dec. 25.—Krivolak is the debarcation point of the French armies in the field in the Balkan campaign—as a village, it is small and unclean, with more the character of a Turkish or a Bulgarian than a Serbian town. There are no accommodations for anybody. The railway station, with its chimney knocked down by a Bulgarian shell, is the most imposing building. To the east is the Vardar, still swollen with rains, shifting, uncertain, narrow, deep. To the north, where the Vardar bends in a westerly direction, is what the French call "The English bridge"—a pontoon structure for the building of which the British army lent the men and the materials. To the southeast is a hill, commanding as an artillery position every nook and corner of the curve of the river. To the north beyond the Vardar is the key of the whole French position—the mountain of Kara Hodzak.

Strong as the point is naturally—and the French Balkan campaign so far has almost confined itself to the tactics of occupying and holding, if possible, the maximum number of strong natural positions—it is open to hostile bombardment from the hills on the opposite shore of the river. A few moments ago half a dozen large calibre shells fell in the river near the English bridge. Just now one has fallen on the hillside to the southeast of the station. Constantly the bridge, the station, and the railroad are the mark of Bulgarian long range artillery. But the mark is too distant. The Bulgarian artillery fire generally is excellent, but it lacks the scientific accuracy of the French and as yet the Bulgarians have no aeroplanes to verify their fire, as the French have. So Krivolak remains unharmed. Shortly the hills to the east are to be cleaned of their batteries. Then Krivolak will be tranquil.

Single Track Railroad.

The journey from Saloniki to Krivolak, by the single track railroad, seems interminable. Fifteen hours to do seventy-five miles. The French complain bitterly that the delay is in the Greek end of the line. Already French engineers are double-tracking the railroad from the Greek-Serbian frontier, north.

There are no fixed train lines. Everything is subservient to the transport of troops, munitions, supplies. On the return journey it is the transport of the wounded—of armies needing repair, of empty rolling stock of which there is too little. There is but one passenger coach on the train, crowded with officers charged with the communications of the various armies engaged—for the telegraph wires are also uncertain—with sanitary officers, medical officers, commissary staff and a few civilians, bound for Greek villages between Saloniki and the frontier. The station at Saloniki is a military one, a couple of miles from the town, in the midst of fields flowering with the tents of the British, finally beginning to move towards the front.

The train is long—all freight cars save the one reserved for the more distinguished. But almost all of the freight cars have their human load as well. The men sleep on straw on the floor throughout the wearisome journey.

At Strumitsa station a Serbian officer comes quietly down the corridor. "All lights out," he ordered. "From here on the railway is within range of the enemy. They generally drop a few at passing trains if they see them." The order seems superfluous in view of the fact that the car is not provided with any lighting system—or at least any that works. But a few men have provided themselves with candles and it is these that must be extinguished.

Crossing Shaky Bridge.

Slowly the train approaches kilometer 45 where the railway crosses the Vardar to the side of the Bulgarians. The bridge was destroyed three years ago in the last Balkan wars and has not been properly rebuilt since. The train creeps across it. The swirling waters of the Vardar are white in the moonlight. Against a sandbar the current has washed three black objects. Logs? As the trains pass close to them, those who have looked out of the train windows see that one of the black objects ends in a white oval—a face upturned to the moon. The eyes are black shadowed holes. The mouth is wide open. A mat of hair alternating covers and reveals the wet glittering forehead in time with the little backwaters of the river from the sand bar.

"Good God, what are those?" "Some of Babounsky's acquaintances," says the French officer. Babounsky is a Serbian guerrilla. He has no standing in the laws of war, but he isn't a bad sort, and he administers a very rude but a very effective sort of justice hereabouts. A good many of the inhabitants of this part of Serbia are Bulgarians you know—and there is no end of spying and general lawlessness going on. Babounsky looks after that. A lot of Serbs have fled, leaving all their belongings. The temptation for the Bulgarians who remain is great. But if Babounsky catches them—and he generally does—their shirt as he calls it. He sends them to Saloniki as he calls it. The Frenchman jerked his thumb over his shoulder towards the river just passed. "Those are on their way to Saloniki," he added.

FIVE PERSONS DROWN IN OKLA. FLOOD DISTRICT

Nine Tanks of Oil Are Set on Fire by Lightning; Great Damage Is Done Healdton Field, Is Report.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE.) Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 21.—Five persons were drowned, numerous others endangered, much property destroyed and train service demoralized in Oklahoma today by rain-swollen streams. The damage centered in Murray county and in the Healdton oil fields.

James Shennet, of Sulphur, Okla., a wealthy bachelor, was drowned in the flood that passed down the creek, following a cloudburst. Mrs. Edward O. Cleveland and three of her children lost their lives in the destruction of their home and store north of Sulphur. Numerous other persons in the rural districts, marooned by the flood, were rescued in boats.

In the Healdton oil fields operators and pipe line companies apparently sustained heavy losses from lightning. Nine tanks of oil were reported burning today, but wire communication was paralyzed before details of the damage could be learned. Smoke from the burning oil hung like a storm cloud over the entire district throughout the day.

In addition to disordered schedules McAlister reported that all train service north and west from that place had been suspended because of washed out tracks and weakened bridges. During the heavy rain early today a St. Louis & San Francisco passenger train was derailed between Schuller and Okmulgee, but none of the passengers were injured seriously.

GEORGIA LYNCHERS KILL FIVE NEGROES

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE.) Sylvester, Ga., Jan. 21.—The death of five negroes whose bullet-riddled bodies were found early today hanging from a tree near Starkville, Ga., was, in a coroner's verdict returned this afternoon, due to "strangulation and gunshot wounds at the hands of unknown parties."

There were no indications that any further investigation would be conducted by the authorities.

The negroes accused of implication in the killing of Sheriff Moreland, of Starkville, were taken from the jail here late yesterday by a small party of men who gained access to the cells through a well planned ruse and whisked the five prisoners away in automobiles. They persuaded the sheriff to open the jail doors by asking permission to place a negro they brought with them in a cell for safekeeping.

The negro disappeared while the sheriff was being overpowered and efforts to locate him or learn his identity have been fruitless.

TEUTONIC ARMIES HAVE PLENTY OF TURPENTINE

(Associated Press Correspondence.) Amsterdam, Jan. 5.—The recent cabled announcement that the president of the Bremen chamber of commerce had declared that no more American turpentine will be imported into Germany is explained by the fact that Germany's ally, Austria, is now in possession of practically the entire Russian turpentine region, of which the town of Lusk is the center. Kovol, another town in Austrian hands, also has an important turpentine trade, and has several other localities around Brest-Litovsk.

The total turpentine output of Poland and Volhynia is estimated by a Dutch technical journal at 2,000 carloads annually, with a value of $2,400,000. In quality it cannot compare with the American product, but being 50 per cent cheaper, it has been used for many industrial purposes. It is expected that under German direction turpentine production in Poland will be increased and improved, which would in any case adversely affect the American turpentine export to Germany after the war.

Would Corner Grain Market.

Bucharest, Jan. 21 (via Berlin and London, 5:14 p. m.)—An Anglo-French corporation with a capital of $50,000,000 (about $26,000,000) has been formed to buy up all available grain, so that the central powers will be unable to import needed supplies. It is not known what use will be made by the allies of the proposed purchases.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs kidneys, then the back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally. We have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders. You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.
